

WHO WE ARE

The Access 4 Learning (A4L) Community, and its special interest group the Student Data Privacy Consortium (SDPC), is a unique, non-profit collaboration composed of schools, districts, local authorities, states, US and International Ministries of Education, software vendors and consultants.

The Community started in 1997 (known as the SIF Association) focussed on developing Community-driven, open standards for data management and exchange, “Powered by SIF” as its major technical tool to help manage learning data simply, securely and in a scalable, standard way regardless of platform. Established in 2015, the SDPC was created to tackle the complex, everyday challenges of safeguarding learner information—bridging the gap between education providers and vendors through shared expectations and practical frameworks. The A4L Community united these education technology end users and providers in an unprecedented effort to ‘connect and secure effective learning ecosystems’ to give teachers more time to do what they do best: teach.

WHAT WE DO

Interoperability

- Powered by the SIF Specification: a Community-developed, open standard
- Enables “enter once, use many times” efficiency across platforms
- Facilitates ‘the right information, in the right place, at the right time’ across disparate systems
- Learn more: <https://data.A4L.org>

Data Privacy

- Streamlines contracting and compliance across jurisdictions
- Thousands of schools and vendors use the same vetted privacy agreement
- Powering the Community-driven SDPC Resource Registry
